Global warming, melting snow, rising sea water and the disappearance of rainforests - all of these put us in danger of the disappearance of many species of animals and plants. The Goodbye, World^{rk} project was designed to illustrate this danger, and included ten artists who put ten of their artworks on ice in the Arctic Circle. The pieces are waiting there, and when the ice melts and the sea level rises, they will dive into the depths and disappear.

The Goodbye, World^{rk} initiated and curated Reimer Sange (Raimar Stange) and Andreas Tmflin (Andreas Templin), who also led the dog sled creations to the floating ice in Sweden.
